Date: November 15, 2018
To: Our valued existing and new customer base
From: Quality Assurance and Compliance
Subject: ISO9001 Certification

For all companies looking to obtain Renco's current ISO certificate, it should be available by the end of November. Renco had to delay and reschedule our ISO recertification, due to some unforeseen medical circumstances. At the time of rescheduling, Renco was under the impression that our ISO9001:2008 expiration date could be extended until the rescheduled audit. Unfortunately, this could not be accomplished since the 9001:2008 standard is considered obsolete.

Our ISO9001:2015 audit has recently taken place on November 12 and 13, 2018. One minor non-conformance was identified. Renco has been recommended for ISO9001:2015 accreditation, pending evidence of resolution to the minor-NC. The evidence is planned to be submitted on or before 11/21/2018, at which time Renco will be officially recertified.

Renco has been advised that processing a physical ISO certificate may be delayed, due to the increase in company certifications. However, the registrar will send an official letter stating we are approved, in the meantime. This letter will be made available online as well.

Renco appreciates your understanding, patience and working through this dilemma with us. We have been ISO accredited since 2003 with no revocation or other unethical findings. Our quality management system has not gone out of control, this was a series of irregular circumstances.

Please contact myself, if you have any further inquiries. Thank you.

Regards,

Travis Rensing
